A Weekly Newsletter of St. Margaret Mary Parish

Third Sunday of Advent

December 12, 2016

In the song, Open the Eyes to My Heart Lord, there is a subtle admission of blindness, perhaps the kind of blindness that Christ came to cure more than any other – the blindness of the heart. It may certainly be the most prevalent blindness in our society today. As we joyfully anticipate the coming of our Lord again, contemplate the blindness which might be in your own heart.

Look in today's email for opportunities that might restore sight to your heart and help you to see things you may have been missing which your Lord would like you to see.

Quote of the Week

“The problem is not that we hope for too much, but that we have learned to settle for so little.”

- Paul J. Wadell, “Not Settling for Less” America, November 21, 2016

Question of the Week

“What are you seeing and hearing that makes you believe that Jesus Christ is the Holy One of God?”

The Prophet Isaiah had two very different ways of seeing and hearing things.

He could be very hopeful: “The desert and the parched land will exult; the steppe will rejoice and bloom” (35:1).

He could be very pessimistic: “See! The Lord is about to empty the earth and lay it waste.” (4:1).

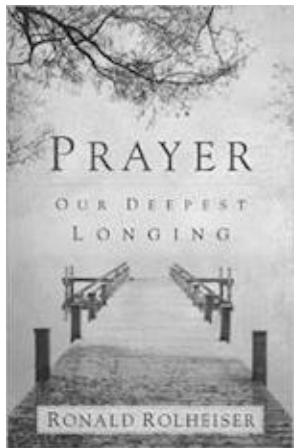

Every day we are confronted with things that can cause anxiety and despair. We cannot wish them away.

We can, however, choose to have genuine hope.

We can choose to believe that Jesus Christ is the Holy One of God when he said, “I will come back again and take you to myself, so that where I am you also may be” (John 14:3)

Perhaps we can choose to be as hopeful as Isaiah was when he said, “Here is your God. . . . he comes to save you” (35:4).

Prayer: Our Deepest Longing

By Ronald Rolheiser, O.M.I.

Chapter One - Struggling in Prayer

"Most days, we don't pray simply because we don't quite get around to it."

God is available at any moment of the day or night. He is always ready to talk. In chapter one of his book, Father Ronald Rolheiser explains why a whole day can pass by without our ever saying "hello" to God. The chapter does not offer us a list of ways to bring God into the conversation. It only asks that we think about the things that distract us or make us hesitant about praying. It also talks about some of the uncertainty over what prayer is really for. The first chapter does, however, suggest that after a little reflection, saying "hello" might come a little easier.
